Jennings Willing to Pay $15,000 for Doc Ayers

Griff Turns Down the Proposition Cold--Nationals Celebrate Friday the Thirteenth by Opening Series in Boston--Gossip.

By WILLIAM PEET.

Hugh Jennings, the peppy leader of the Detroit Tigers, is one manager not proclaiming from the house tops that his bunch will win the pennant. "My club is up there, and if I could get one more experienced pitcher--a pitcher able to hold any one of our opponents to four runs any time he is started--I believe we would stand a very good show of winning. "Just how much money would you give now for such a pitcher?" the writer made bold to ask. "Fifteen thousand dollars would be a cheap price for a pitcher able to help us win the pennant," replied the Tigers' chief. "I must have an experienced man--one who has made good in the big leagues," Mr. Jennings added. "Which one of Griffith's pitchers were you after?" Inquired the writer of Manager Jennings. "Doc Ayers would suit me if I could get him," "Would you be willing to pay $15,000 for Ayers?" "Yes, I would," Jennings replied. "Do you think with Ayers added to your twisting staff that the Tigers would win the pennant?" "Yes, I think we would," came the reply. "But Griffith will not part with Ayers, for I have sounded him on the subject--and there you are."

A heavy downpour of rain yesterday caused the Washington management to postpone the final game of the series against the Tigers. Dubuc and Joe Boelling were the slamben accused to hook up in this battle.

Minus Ray Morgan and the half-dozen of local semipro players, the Nationals last night boarded the Federal Express for Boston, where today, Friday, the 13th, will be started a series of three games.

Walter Johnson probably will be the hurler nominated by Griffith to oppose the Boston bunch in the first game of the series. "Baby" Ruth, the Red Sox clever young southpaw, will more than likely be in the game today.

Race track followers have indicated Saratoga, N. Y., as the place of advancing the cost of living almost to a point where it would be cheaper for a man to die.

The racing season opened there about ten days ago. It will continue another three weeks. Saratoga is a small town. A flock of visitors is a rarity in these days, and some Saratogans believe in "making hay while the sun is in."

Some of those who have gone to Saratoga complain that the hotels have boosted their rates far beyond normal, and that in even some of the private houses the natives are charging $30 a week for a room--without board. As to meat prices--well, the calamity howlers say that none but a Rockefeller, Morgan, or Gould can afford a regular meal in the little New York town.

Word comes from Baltimore that the Baltimore Federals will fall in line with the other clubs and offer 10-cent seats to all the bleacherites. This move was anticipated, and should go big over in the Monumental City, which always has been a cheap baseball town.

Perhaps the greatest of baseball "come-backs" is being staged by Charley Hall, the former Boston American hurler, who is now with the St. Paul team of the American Association. Combs, Wood and others are termed "come-backs," but their feats do not compare with that of Hall, because the latter is an older man and one who was counted down and out. Hall pitched grand ball for the Red Sox in 1912 and did much toward winning the pennant for McAleer and Stahl, but in doing so injured his arm and was released in the middle of the following season.

Hall went to St. Paul, believing his pitching-days were over, and he played in the outfield for the balance of the season. In 1914 he tried his hand at pitching, but had little success. A complete rest was the only cure for his ailment, and he twirled but little until this spring. Hall announced in the spring that his arm was better than it had been in years, but it was generally believed that he was overestimating his ability. Starting back in May, Hall has burned up the American Association and registered his fourteenth consecutive victory when he beat Dan Tipton, of Indianapolis, in a pitching duel on Tuesday. If there has ever been a more remarkable "come-back" than this it has never been brought to the attention of the public. Hall's record is all the more remarkable because of the number of shut-out and few-hit games that have been included in the streak.

Sam Crawford, according to Hugh Jennings, his manager, is the hardest hitting batsman in the history of the national pastime. Crawford certainly leads in long hits, and that fact goes a long way toward proving the truth of Jennings' assertion.

The question, however, is open to debate in certain particulars. There are and have been batters who drove the ball away from the bat with as much velocity as "Sam" imparts, but who fail or failed to make as long hits because they do not give as much loop to the drive. Some balls go straight, but they haven't the combined lift and impetus which Crawford is able to give, and no one appears to be able to equal him in this remarkable combination.

Deleahanty, Lajoie and Anson, no doubt, landed on the pellet as hard as does Crawford, but they sent the ball away on the line more often. As a hard, straightaway hitter, Anson never had a superior. Sailer and Zimmerman are two of the best of the present day batters at driving the ball with keen, swift velocity, and Wagner, in his prime, could hit the pellet through the infield so fast that all the players knew of it was its whistle. But none of them have the Crawford "twist" which makes the ball carry far.

Jacques Fournier, of the White Sox, is a savage slugger, and is improving right along. He will be worth while watching, for at present he appears to be the most likely candidate to give "Sam" a run for honors in the near future.

Lowell Forfeited First Game.

WAGNER BEATEN BY SUBSTITUTE

Mike Flamier, the "Zulu Kid," Takes Gans' Place and Lands Verdict.

MARX BREAKS HIS HAND

Greek Given Bout in First Session. Two Preliminaries Are Stopped by Referee.

By JOHN A. DUGAN.

In selecting a substitute for Italian Joe Gans, of Brooklyn, Manager La Fontaine, of the Maryland Athletic and Social Club, named a battler who proved to be far superior to Kid Wagner, of Wilkesbarre, in Mike Flamier, known to the Manhattan fight fans as "The Zulu Kid." This Zulu person carries a big reputation and stacked his chances against a veteran of the middle-weight class in battling the Allegheny fighter for the small purse which the local club hung up; but he made good from the bell, and when the fight was over, Harry O'Leary, the referee, threw the sponge into the ring.

Italian Joe Gans was on the scene, but early yesterday Dr. A. E. Bailey, the club's physician, declared him not in condition to fight. Manager La Fontaine got busy over the long-distance phone and secured the services of Mike Flamier, who proved to be one of the best boys that have shown here under the new management. Zulu started the battle with his rushing tactics and led throughout the affair. Wagner was given an even break with the New York fighter in the sixth round, but outside of this session the Wilkesbarre boy was picked by all the wise ones to land the verdict over Kid Greek, the local feather-weight title holder, broke his left hand in the first round and was forced to quit. Greek had slightly the shade of the battle.

The first bout proved to be the best affair of the evening. Kid McCauley battled Kid York in four rounds of fast milling. Kid Sullivan, the referee, gave a draw, which met with the approval of the large crowd present.

Filly Murray easily landed the verdict in the next battle, but the fans at the ring-side are still wondering why Johnny Miller had not taken the count long before it happened in the fourth round. Mace went to the canvas for the count of six to nine eight times during the milling. Murray was not in the running for the title, and the little battler was given credit for his gameness.

Sailor Hamikay, known to the Ardmore patrons as "Battleship," showed again in the third preliminary with Jack Boland, a local middle-weight, but Manager La Fontaine ordered the bout stopped in the third round, giving it to the sailor battler, who had been leading throughout.

Lee to Report to Browns.
Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 12--Harry Lee, who is playing the outfield for the Atlanta club in the Southern Association and has been hitting a .300 clip all season, will play for the Atlanta Americans at the close of the season in the South, or sooner if the management of the Atlanta club finds the club is not in the running for the pennant by September 1. An effort was made to bring Lee back to the Browns' month ago, but Atlanta would not let the youngster go. Lee bats from Rayonne, N. J.

Squadron Disbands.
Marblehead, Mass., Aug. 12--The cruiser squadron of the New York Tacht Club was formally disbanded this noon at the close of the day's races. The America Cup yacht race, which defeated her rival, Vanitie, in a special race by about two to three minutes yesterday, was the final event of the regatta. The schooner Endeavour finished first of the regular races, but lost on time.

Robert Morris--"Financier of the Revolution"

IT HAS BEEN SAID the three very great men of our War for Independence were Washington, Franklin and Morris. In the history of mankind no man ever had a more arduous commission than did Morris in financing the armies of Washington. The credit of the nation was practically valueless, and time after time it was the personal credit of Morris which brought forth the money. The financial means raised from his own private resources made the victory at Trenton possible. When Washington proposed the capture of Lord Cornwallis and his entire army, it was from Morris, the patriot and private citizen, and not from the treasury of the Confederate States from which the money came. Thus Washington's last great victory was made possible, and the long and bloody struggle for National Independence brought to an end. Morris was the first to suggest our present system of National banks--the best banking system that any nation has ever known. He was the first American to send a ship forth flying the Stars and Stripes. Like Franklin he signed both the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States. He was very hospitable, and whenever Washington visited Philadelphia he was the guest of Morris. He was ever a moderate user of light wines and barley brews, and opposed Prohibition Laws, which make the many suffer for the faults of the few. For 3 years Anheuser-Busch have been brewing the kind of honest barley-malt and Sazer hop brews which the wisdom of Morris knew make for real temperance. To-day at the home of BUDWEISER 7500 people are daily required to meet the natural public demand. BUDWEISER'S ever-increasing popularity comes from quality, purity, mildness and exquisite flavor. Its sales exceed any other beer by millions of bottles.
